Art Unit: 1722

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: "manifold 10" (paragraph 18, line 4) or "manifold plug 10" (paragraph 20, line 3).

Appropriate correction is required.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 10-13, 17-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gellert et al. (US Patent 5849343)

Art Unit: 1722

Gellert et al. disclose an injection molding apparatus comprising a manifold 12 having a channel 10 undergoing a change of direction from an inlet to an outlet and being aligned with a nozzle channel of a nozzle 14, a mold cavity 18 for receiving said melt stream, a valve pin 82 extending through a bore provided in said manifold and through said nozzle channel, said valve pin being movable to selectively open and close said mold gate, a guide (bushing) 38 projecting from an inner wall of said manifold channel, diametrically opposing said inlet for restricting the flow of said melt stream, said guide being located behind said valve pin and abutting a portion of said valve pin.

Claims 20 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Gould et al. or Bouti.

Both of the references disclose an injection molding machine comprising a manifold 12, 56 respectively having a manifold channel for receiving a melt stream of moldable material under pressure, a manifold plug (mixer 22, sleeve 42) located in the manifold, said plug having a channel for receiving a melt stream from said manifold, said manifold plug channel undergoing a change in direction from an inlet to an outlet, said inlet being aligned with said manifold channel and said outlet being aligned with a nozzle downstream and a flow restriction element 52, 38 respectively projecting from an inner wall of said manifold plug channel opposing said inlet.

Claims 1-9, 14-16 are allowed over the prior art since the prior art fails to disclose or suggest a manifold plug (body) having a channel formed therein and having a guide (surface) abutting a portion of a valve pin as set forth in the above claims.
